

Didrik Bech from AccountOnIt to Elmatica:

New CEO at Elmatica

Didrik Bech from AccountOnIt is the new CEO at Elmatica, Norway's largest PCB trader. Elmatica is in the process of developing a net based ERP system to streamline and integrate all aspects of its business processes across national boundaries.

Didrik Bech previous position as CEO in the accounting chain AccountOnIt AS was finished after a three year reconstruction project. AccountOnIt was of august this year acquired by the world's largest provider of assurance, tax, and business consulting, namely PricewaterhouseCoopers (PWC). This was their first acquisition within the accounting industry in Norway.

– We are quite satisfied by having Didrik on our team. His comprehensive background will add new dimensions to our company, which our customers and the Elmatica team will benefit from. Didrik is a skilled individual with a clear focus on process, technology and quality with a strong emphasis on social interaction. This is a rare combination, stated by previous CEO Arild Bakke and now acting COB.

Increased customer demand for knowledge

– The PCB industry is constantly evolving and especially in regard to new technology and standards of quality. These aspects create challenges and opportunities for the different vendors in the industry and our knowledge places us in the front of this development. Our ambition is to be the natural partner for those who seek advice and guidance in relation to PCB aspects. Didrik will be an important part of this objective, stated by Bakke.

Inspired by Elmatica

Didrik Bech was early on impressed by what Elmatica has achieved and not least the new system, which will begin to be implemented by fourth quarter of 2011.

– Elmatica's work ethic, focus on technology and quality was what first caught my attention and I look forward to getting to know all their customers. I hope to add an international aspect, strengthen their processes and raise the "sound" level at the office, stated by Didrik Bech.

Didrik Bech was responsible on an international level for the strategic and organizational development of AccountOnIt and several of their customers where listed on the stock market. He has a bachelor in economic with specialization in strategy and a master in strategy from Handelshøyskolen BI in Norway.
